CHIMES
Nineteen Seventy
Berea College
Berea, Kentucky

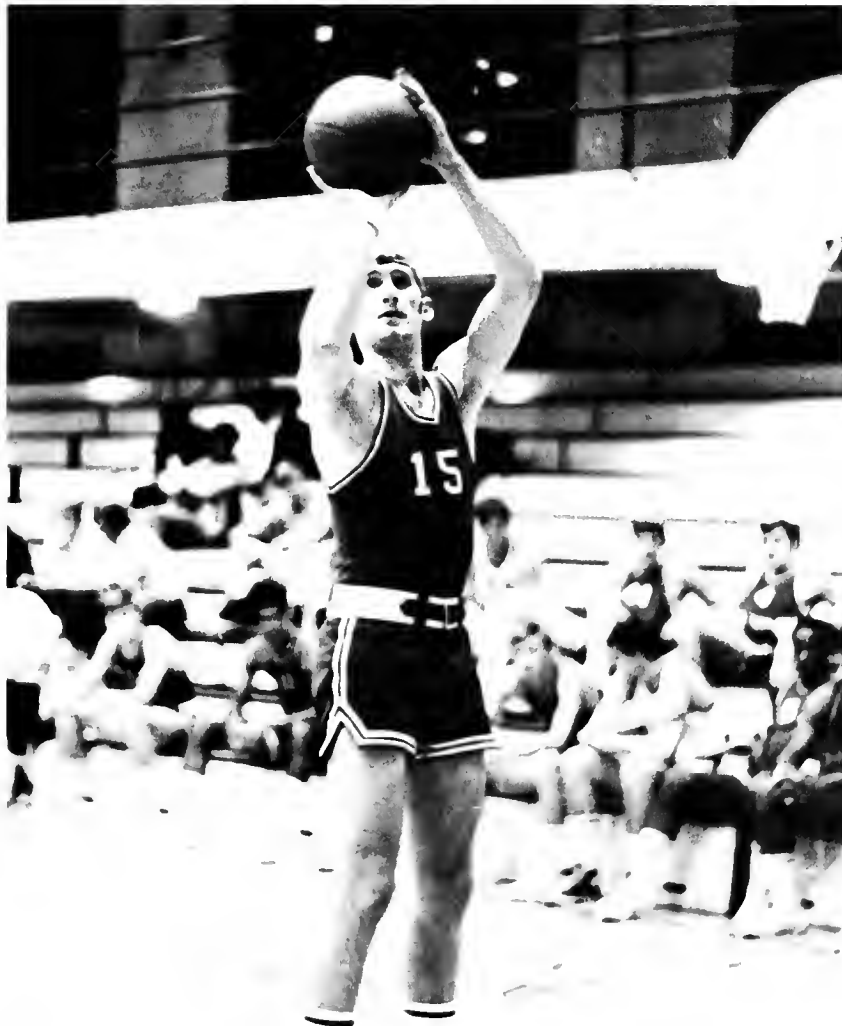

Sylvia Rhea — Bob Polly
Editors

Time it was

Berea College Collegiate dept. Senior class
Chimes.

. . . And what a time it was

It was a time of innocence

It was a time of confidence long ago

It must be I have a photograph

Preserve your memories . . . these are all that's left

Through our tiny windows we watch the world devour itself

*If I don't find out who I am . . .
Maybe I'll find out who I was* the autumn leave

And Spring awaits their return

Be still . . .

and listen to the world.

Ours is a transparent dream which shields us from yesterdays and walls out countless tomorrrows

berea . . . beginning a new decade

Our Dedication To The The 1970 CHIMES Is

all new administrators

new athletics

NEW BEREA

Dedicated To . . .

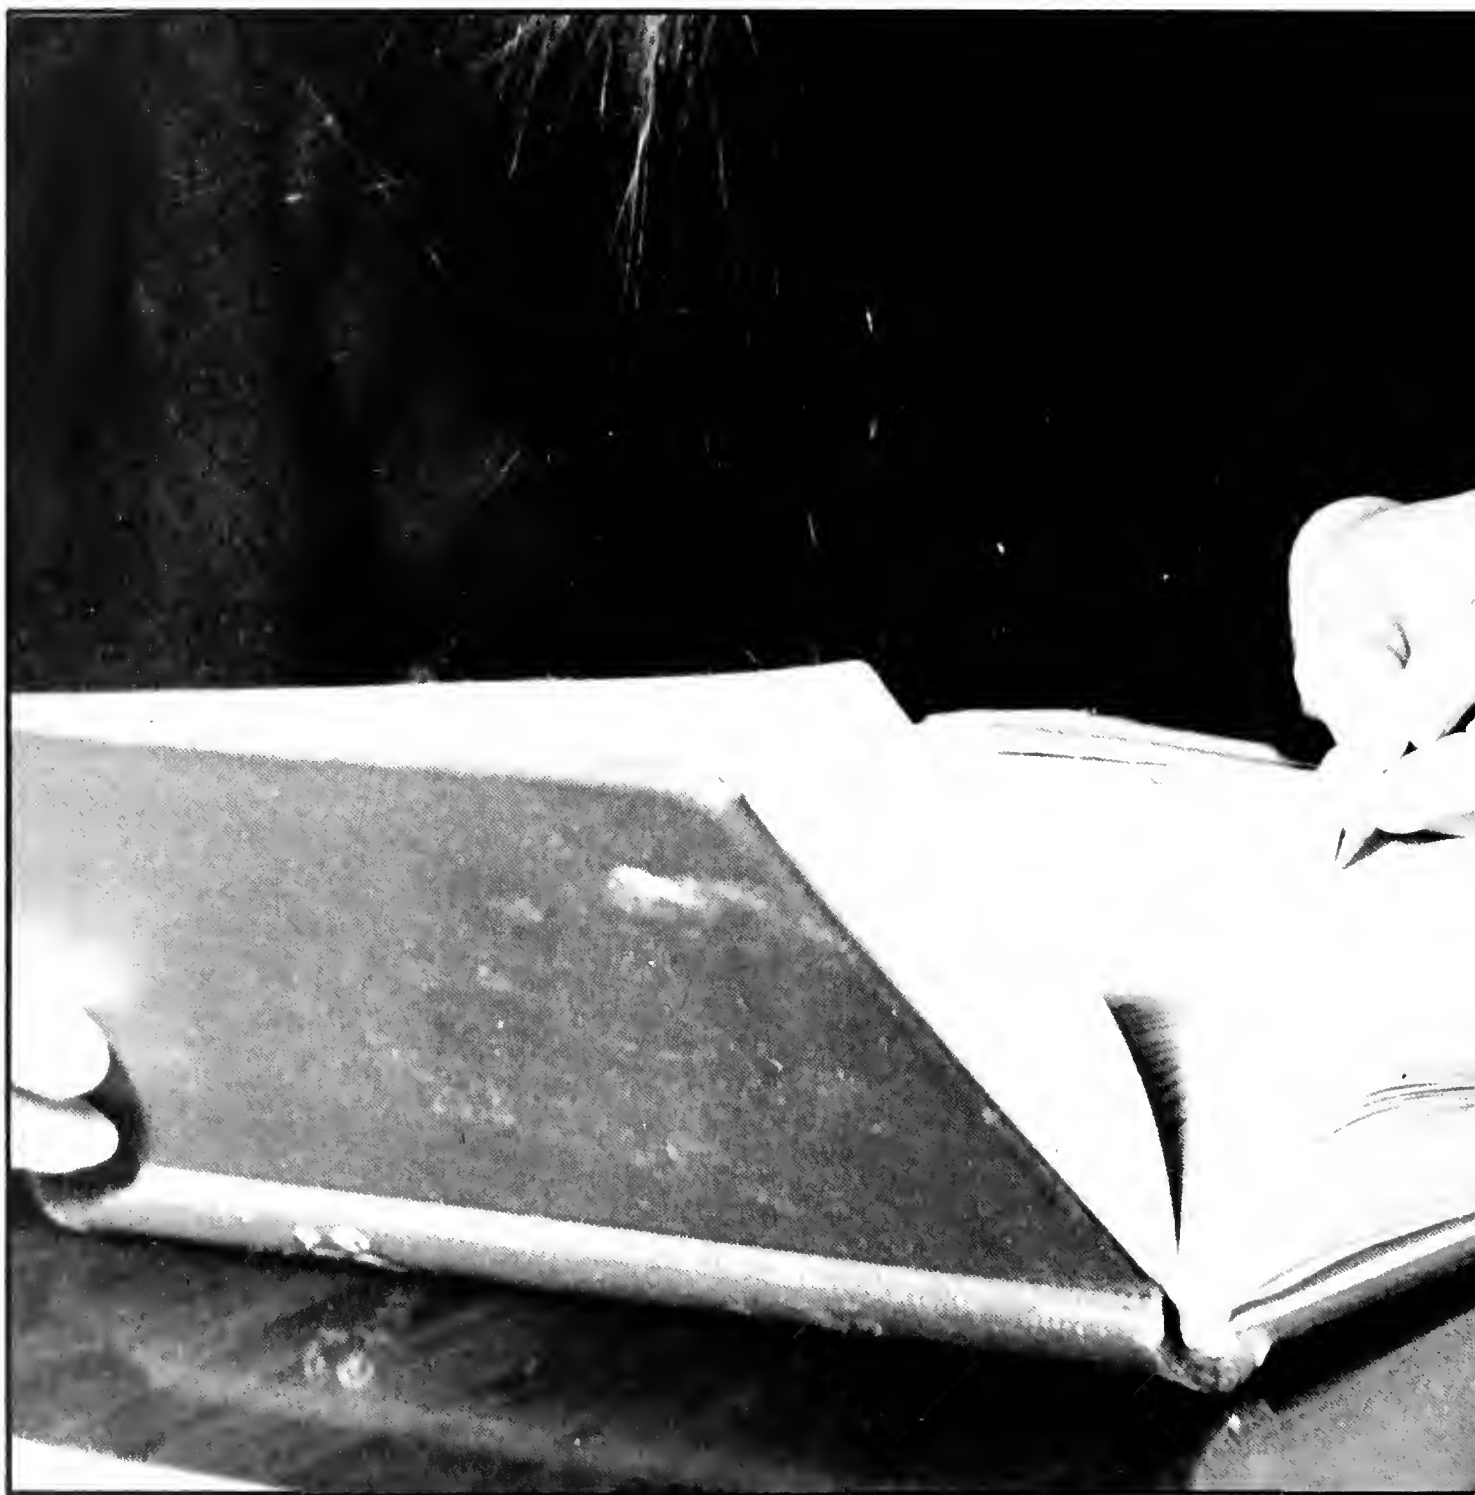

a new campus

new social events

The newly formed Campus Activities Board brought the BOXTOPS to campus.

And academically the NEW CURRICULUM by which Berea can move forward into a new decade

MOUNTAIN

DAY

LOOKS EASY . . . from here . . .

the ascent to the pinnacle of Indian Fort Mountain, but the road gets steeper, as 800 Berea College students and staff discovered Wednesday, Oct. 15, as they climbed Indian Fort Mountain. Berea's 93rd annual Mountain Day just happened to coincide with the first annual Vietnam Moratorium, and some climbers wore black mourning arm bands. Others wore small American flags on their arms as a counter protest.

Two new residence halls expected to be ready for occupancy by February 1, 1971.

The women's dormitory, named the Eugene and Virginia Kettering Hall, is taking shape on the edge of the ridge at Frost Circle.

The men's residence hall, as yet unnamed, is rising on the other side of campus, overlooking the athletic fields.

The cost for the two new buildings is close to $3 million including site preparation and furnishings. Each will house 144 students comfortably, and will provide attractive space for study, living and recreation. The new halls will replace several venerable frame buildings and small units, beloved perhaps, but impractical as housing for the seventies.

NEW NURSING BUILDING

Named for two pioneer nurse-educators, the building contains the newest and most effective teaching devices available anywhere. The structure is wired throughout for audio-visual facilities, and there are TV monitors in each classroom.

The building, named for Mrs. Lorena Hafer Lewis and Miss Florence Gibson, was built at a cost of $830,000. Hexagonal in shape and built of brick, the new building makes extensive indoor use of wood paneling and of brick.

Floors of hexagon-shaped tiles, globular hanging lights and rough-textured indoor walls are among the striking architectural details chosen by Louis and Henry.

The Hafer-Gibson Building was financed by the gifts of private donors and by a $286,448 grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Some 200 health officers, alumni, student nurses and friends were invited to dedication ceremonies on Nov. 20, 1969. A special guest was Margaret McLaughlin, assistant surgeon general and chief nurse officer of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Berea had the first college-level nursing program west of the Alleghenies. With this new building, she maintains her leadership.

The intrinsic value of a hand-made item is being recognized more and more by this urban, mechanized society.

Made by hand, after patterns designed by an earlier, simpler era, the products of Berea's Student Craft Industries have an appeal almost nostalgic in an increasingly urban mechanized society.

In New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, products made by Berea students are sold in fashionable gift shops and in leading department stores. At the Log House Sales Room and the gift shop of Boone Tavern, the same products attract tourists by the thousands.

STUDENT CRAFT INDUSTRIES employ 225 Berea College students in five separate operations:

Broomcraft
Candy Kitchen
Woodcraft
Needlecraft
Fireside Weaving

ROBERT FLEMING WHO DIRECTS the Student Craft Industries says, "We are working to promote Appalachian crafts and the Appalachian heritage. Our products are of the highest quality."

Mr. Fleming's job is aided by a nationwide renewal of interest in the American past, and by a growing appreciation of the intrinsic value of products made by hand.
